World Book Day

We have really enjoyed World Book Day this year. Our day was based around the book, Odd Dog Out, by Rob Bidulph. The story is the tale of a dog who learns that it is good to be different and that you should celebrate being you! The children's unique costumes really demonstrated this. After hearing the story in assembly the children designed their own odd dogs. They look great!

Mr Wilkinson, one of our governors, also came into school to teach us a song he wrote about the joy of books. It was a very catchy song and the children did a great job of learning it. We have plans to perform it to you some time in the future!

Our School Library

We have spent some time rearranging and improving our school library.

We have a fiction and non fiction section and have clearly labelled areas so that the children can find the type of library books that really interest them and capture their imagination—we hope that your child manages to find something to suit them.
